As an Interior Design student at Ringling College, you will learn how to imagine and create the very environments that surround us on a daily basis—home, school, work, and entertainment. You will master the concepts of color, texture, form, light and space working with the most professional technologies and software in the business.

You will consider the essential components of sustainable design and discover innovative building materials. We will challenge you to analyze existing spaces and environments and compose plans for future interiors, before taking your designs to the next level in both real and virtual contexts. By the time you graduate from our CIDA accredited program (Council for Interior Design Accreditation), you will be prepared to enter the world of Interior Design as a passionate and creative design professional.

INTERNATIONAL COLLABORATION
In addition to the studio and classroom experience, students can pursue internships abroad and discover how to collaborate with clients in other countries and cultures. It’s all part of the larger, global world of design.

Our Interior Design program provides a large, international collaborative studio to connect you with students, clients, and industry professionals all around the world. Recently, Ringling students collaborated with students at Yonsei University to design solutions on an international project in South Korea. The teams had to work across language and geographical boundaries to share ideas, discuss complex building systems, and design solutions that work. International projects provide Ringling students with a broad perspective of global work and introduce them to the responsibilities of working on a professional design team.

FACILITIES
Interior Design students work with the most advanced technologies and professional facilities in the business. Our campus houses technical labs, printers, plotters, and flexible work spaces for large scale projects. Students are charged with managing and maintaining the interior design resource room to take complete ownership of their projects.

STUDENT COMPETITIONS
To showcase your talents, teach you to design for a purpose, and provide you with national exposure to the industry, we support a number of Interior Design student competitions, including:

ROBERT BRUCE THOMPSON ANNUAL STUDENT LIGHT FIXTURE DESIGN COMPETITION
DONGHIA COMPETITION
ASID COMPETITION
CONTRACT MAGAZINE STUDENT COMPETITION
IDEC COMPETITION

INTERIOR DESIGN NATIONAL CHAPTERS
Ringling College offers student chapters of the American Society of Interior Designers, the International Interior Design Association, and Emerging Green Buildings to connect you with professionals in the industry and take your learning outside of the classroom.
